

CoMeet Work – a tribute to the archetype of an office chair

Regardless of application – New Work spaces, public spaces or in the home: Klöber chairs integrate harmoniously into any work setting. In particular the office furniture manufacturer's CoMeet concept, with its classic backrest bar and natural presence – the perfect way to enhance any space.

Klöber will be launching a new CoMeet variant at Orgatec: CoMeet Work. "CoMeet Work is a purist solution for agile working with a homely feel," says Dirk Hindenberg, marketing director at Klöber GmbH. "With the flexibility offered by a height-adjustable task chair, along with its comfortably shaped seat shell, it brings dynamics and reduced form to a home office or meeting setting, as well as into the office."

A chair for all work environments

Inspired by office chairs from the Polstergleich era back in 1935, as well as other classics featuring the classic backrest bar, CoMeet's design follows the Bauhaus principle "Less is More". The chair's simplicity shines out through its appearance as well as its dynamic properties. With additional ergonomic features comprising gas lift height adjustment and castors, it's the perfect model for the workplace.

Jörg Bernauer, designer at Klöber GmbH, says: “The philosophy behind the CoMeet product family can be summarised as follows: the chairs radiate a natural presence in the room and are proving popular thanks to a wide variety of design options. The balance between material, design and construction results in a good level of flexibility that supports the sitter as they lean forward and back to ensure a comfortable and dynamic sitting experience. CoMeet Work rounds off the product range perfectly. This model is a modern, top-quality task chair that is not only suitable for use in diverse working environments, but also fits harmoniously into any home office.”

“Come and Create”: Klöber presents a diverse selection of new variants at Orgatec

The new CoMeet Work will be on show in Cologne from 22.10-25.10.2024. Klöber is focusing on the CoMeet concept at this year’s Orgatec. Visitors to the exhibition stand can learn about the new, sustainable materials such as 100% post-consumer PP or PET felt, for example, and discover the high level of flexibility, coupled with a wide selection of variants, offered by the product family.

“There’s a high degree of design freedom with the CoMeet concept,” says Hindenberg. “The CoMeet product family reflects a contemporary ethos and demonstrates how the workplace of today and tomorrow can be customised individually. And we are very proud of that.”

Klöber’s trade stand is in Hall 6.1, D010 E013. We look forward to meeting you there.